Approved For Release 2004/10/12 : CIA-RDP81M00980R002000090143-3

MIAMI, FLORIDA HERA'D

media

M - 384,824S - 486,568

> FEB 3 1978

. FBI: A Parting of the Ways

OTH THE CIA and the FBI are trying to rebuild their external image and their internal morale, and the leaves in our teacup reveal hope for the FBI, more woes for the CIA.

Why? We'll let the statements of CIA-Director Stansfield Turner and FBI Director-designate William H. Webster speak for themselves.

Judge Webster, testifying before the Senate Judiciary Committee on Monday, promised to make the FBI once again the "top law-enforcement agency in the country." While advocating vigorous law enforcement, he added that "it should be done with due regard for the rights of our citizens."

Admiral Turner, interviewed by U.S. News & World Report, revealed that the CIA is cutting back on its meddling in other nations' internal affairs. Not that such interference is morally indefensible, mind. Or even that the CIA tends to botch intrigues that it should never have undertaken anyway.

No, said Admiral Turner, "Today we don't think that kind of interference in other people's governments,— politicalaction — is as useful a tool for this counbut we're downplaying it."

Unless he has blemishes that investiseems the right choice to rebuild the FBI. tics, has set a course that those nations His personal life seems impeccable, his can only interpret as being full speed judicial record admirable (his decisions astern.

Turner,

Webster

were rarely reversed), his dedication to-Constitutional principles unshakable.

Unless he modifies his views of its role, Admiral Turner may succeed in ridding the CIA of its dead wood, but he will never lead it out of the thickets. It is desirable, indeed mandatory, for the CIA to collect intelligence from abroad; national security demands it. But fomenting revolutions elsewhere, inviting more Chiles and Angolas, should not be U.S. policy

So Judge Webster may well reform try. We're not eschewing it completely, the FBI, because he speaks within the context of law and due process. But Admiral Turner, by not disavowing CIA gators have not found, Judge Webster meddling in other nations' internal poli-

W Drong